Bilatral relations with neighbouring countries

1125. SHRI IQBAL SINGH; Will the Minister of EXTERNAL AFFAIRS be pleased to state the specific steps taken and the achievements made by Government of India to strengthen the bilateral relations with the neighbouring countries during the last three years; country-wise?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF EXTERNA!, AFFAIRS fSHRT R L. BHATIA): The information, country-wise, is as under:—

CHINA

During this period. Government continued to work towards the goal of establishing a long-term, stable and good neighbourly relationship with China. Thet process of steady improvement in India-China relations was helped by a high-level political dialogue with China.

Among others, President Shri R. Veakataraman (May 1992), Prime Minister Shri P. V. Narasimha Rao (September 1993) and Vice-President Shri K. R. 1993) and Vice-President Shri K. R. Narayanan (October 1994) visited China during the period. From the Chinese side, Premier Li Peng (December 1991), CPPCC Chairman Li Ruihuan (December 1993) and other senior functionaries including Ministers of Foreign Affairs, Defence! find Foreign Trade visited India.

During the visit of Prime Minister Shri P. V„ Narasimha Rao to China, the Agreement on the Maintenance of Peace and Traoquiility along the Line of Actual Control in the India-China Border Areas was concluded. It is an enabling agreement which lays down the framework for ensuring peace and harmony along the Line of Actual Control (LAC). Implementation measures for this agreement are being worked out in the Joint Working Group and the newly-constituted Expert Group.

Government has also sought to promote bilateral trade and economic cooperation with China. For instance, India concluded agreements with China for avoidance of double taxation and establishment of banking relations in order to remove institutional obstacles to development of bilateral economic relations. India-China trade almost doubled in 1993 to reach the annual turnover of US $675 million. The trade volume is expected to be around US $ 900 million in 1994. A number of Chinese joint ventures have also been estalished in India and Indian companies are setting up joint ventures in China.

Government has also taken steps to promote cultural, scientific and other functional exchanges with China. For instance, the Festival of India was organised in China in May-June 1994. Earlier, India had hosted the Chinese Festival in December 1992 — January 1993.

BHUTAN

The traditionally warm and friendlly relationship between India and Bhutan has further progressed during the last 'three years. Prime Minister v sited Bhutan in August 1993.
